

'They are very special people'

OSF HealthCare pharmacist encourages others to give the gift of life

ANCHOR LEDE

During National Donate Life Month, an OSF HealthCare pharmacist is encouraging others to look into organ donation.

TAKE VO

Cheryl Weaver suffered from a genetic kidney disorder but got a new kidney in 2020, giving her some freedoms back since she wasn't tied down to a dialysis machine.

SOT**

Cheryl Weaver, OSF HealthCare pharmacist

"Everybody has their own beliefs. I understand that. But my belief is that once you're gone and your body is left behind, you should use it, hopefully, to help other people continue to live." (:13)

VO TAG

For more information on organ donation – either a living donation or pledging to donate when you pass away – visit the OSF HealthCare and Gift of Hope websites.