

Transcript of Video-Audio with Dr. John Vozenilek, vice president and chief medical officer for OSF Innovation & Digital Health

“These programs are under development to provide new prototypes – to really do better outreach to our communities to really serve patients where they are in their current conditions, and to advance the care.” (:13)

“Our focus is on health care outcomes, no doubt but here we also provide great emphasis on equity and to ensuring that every patient has the advantage of an excellent diagnosis, an excellent treatment plan and good outreach. The University of Illinois in Chicago has a long, storied history of excellence in this area. We’re very proud to partner with them to advance our Mission, particularly in the metro area.” (:27)
